Winter Veggies Anyone?

Planterra nears end of Construction

What's in the middle of your Thanksgiving Table?

Units for Sale!!!

Happy November!

Can you believe that Thanksgiving is less than two weeks away! 2009 was a great year for Private Garden and our family. Our family was blessed with a new addition; Madelyn Mae Sackrider was born on March 16, 2009. She is now a healthy 8 month old that has brought joy to our entire family. Private Garden has built numerous private estate greenhouses, garden centers, kiosks and of course the 800,000 square foot Hydroponic Tomato Range in Madison, Maine. Our family has a great deal to be thankful for. On behalf of the Hickson and Sackrider families we wish you and your family a Happy Thanksgiving. Enjoy and cherish your time with your family!

Winter Veggies Anyone??

Ayden (2 years old) and Madelyn (7 months) Sackrider enjoying their fresh, hydroponically grown tomatoes.

With winter approaching, we must all say goodbye to our favorite summer vegetables. That is unless you are familiar with the Backyard Farms (BYF's) hydroponically grown vine-ripened tomatoes. These wonderful tomatoes taste like you just picked them fresh off the vine. Private Garden is lucky to have had the honor of designing and building BYF's Phase II. During the last year, we built over 800,000 square feet of Venlo Greenhouses equipped with screening, heating, CO2 system, an environmental controller and heating. We also built an 80,000 square foot Packing House with 6,000 square feet of office space. It took (12) months but the project was built on time and within the budget. BYF's now has over 2,000,000 square feet of growing space. To learn more about growing year round vegetables in your own greenhouse, please call 413.566.0277!

Planterra Press Release

Private Garden is proud to announce construction at the new Planterra Conservatory in West Bloomfield, Michigan is progressing. The 22,000 square foot conservatory building which features European hipped rooflines, curved steel trusses, and gold leaf detailing has already earned the nickname the "Glass Jewel Box." When complete, the building will house Planterra's much anticipated new retail garden center concept, offering customers a stylish shopping experience within a botanical garden-like setting.

What is in the middle of your Thanksgiving Table??

Our Friends at Biltons Mountain side Orchard, Hampden, Massachusetts, let us take some photo's of their Thanksgiving Center pieces. On Thanksgiving, your family and friends sit down to a wonderful dinner. The table is always colorful with the turkey, stuffing, mashed potatoes, cranberries, vegetables, and speciality family dishes. About two years ago, Mr. Bilton decided to sell Thanksgiving center pieces. He thought it would add more value to that family gathering.
